Bruton Parish Church, Williamsburg, Virginia

BRUTON PARISH CHURCH

Williamsburg, Virginia

Originally erected in 1710—1715, this was the court church of the Virginia Colony and is now in its third century of continuous use. It was partially restored to its original appearance in 1905—7, and completely restored in 1936. In its aisles and yard are the graves of two colonial governors, three secretaries of state, and other notable citizens.
